Saco-S for academic graduates

Issues concerning salary and employment conditions are common to all academic graduates employed in the state sector. This is why 22 Saco associations have combined to form one negotiations organisation: Saco-S Akademiker i staten. All together we represent almost 86,000 members. This creates an efficient organisation and strength for our members.

Your association membership will depend on your academic subject and profession. Each association is expert on the issues vital to their own membership group.

We create better conditions for academic graduates

Saco-S creates a platform for good working conditions for you. We negotiate collective agreements covering areas such as pensions, general employment conditions, holidays, sick leave and parental leave.

We are convinced that satisfied employees and well-functioning governmental organizations go hand in hand. Our policy and our approach is consequently characterized by a desire to contribute to the development and performance of the state sector. The organizational goals and missions must be made visible and linked to the employees' responsibilities, competence, interests and career opportunities.

Our salary policy is based on the assumption that your personal contribution to the organizational goals and mission is directly linked to the development of your salary. Salaries must be individual and differentiated and salary levels and salary development must be competitive. Through our collective bargaining agreements, we also want our members to be able to influence their own work situation and work conditions based on personal preferences and priorities. This may involve issues such as salaries, working hours, number of vacation days or pension contributions.

The Saco-S associations do not only work with union issues, they are experts on professional issues that are of particular interest to your academic degree and employment sector. Together, the associations cover the whole labour market. We are here for you throughout your career, so you never have to change association if or when you change jobs. In some cases, you can be a member of two associations at the same time without having to pay double fees.

Saco-S in your workplace

In most government agencies there is a local Saco-S branch with a board that represents its members. The local branch is the hub of Saco-S activities, working to influence and develop your particular workplace. The members of the different Saco-S associations at a government agency come together under the umbrella of the local Saco-S branch.

Saco-S is a negotiation association for state-employed academic graduates and consists of 22 Saco associations.

Membership that pays off

A considerable number of graduates employed in the state sector are members of a Saco-S association. This makes us a strong negotiation partner with the resources to provide support and advice when required.

Individual counselling

Are you going to change jobs, become a parent or are you facing a reorganization at work? You may want to contact your association. We provide advice and support based on your unique situation. Our officials are experts on issues such as salaries, holidays, overtime, employment contracts, redundancy and leave of absence.

Latest salary statistics

We have the largest database on graduate salaries – Saco lönesök. A goldmine when it's time for the annual salary negotiations of if you are offered a new job.

Professional career support

We are serious about your career. We organize seminars, networking meetings, CV development, personal counselling, and simulated employment interviews, all of which provide you with better opportunities in the labour market.

Insurance at advantageous rates

Having many members means we get good discounts. We can therefore offer generous insurance cover in areas such as home, health and life insurance.

Pension experts

We can guide you through the jungle of pension regulations.

Safety-net during unemployment

The graduates' unemployment insurance fund (www.aea.se) provides one of the market's most cost-effective unemployment insurance solutions. Please note that there is a separate application form for AEA. Most Saco-S associations also operate an income insurance that is included in the membership fee. This insurance offers you additional compensation in cases of involuntary unemployment and provides extra security for those on fixed-term contracts.
